STEADILY MARCHING ON

The Free Lunch Army Travels Another Twelve Miles.

COXEY HAS LEFT FOR CHICAGO,

But He Promises to Return to the Wanderers-The March Thus Far Has Been Orderly, but Creates No Enthusiasm Among the People.

ALLIANCE, O., March 28.-Twelve miles of the longest free lunch route on record was mapped; out for the Coxey caravan yesterday. January weather was also on the program, but the sympathy of the people along the line of march is making it possible for the men to progress without any particular hardships. They were cheered yesterday morning by sausage, ham, dry bread and black coffee. Soap is still among the things invisible, and there is no danger that anybody is going to mis-take this for a turnout of plutocrats. Only the hobo contingent are provided with soap, and they are not particular about using it. All luxuries are carefully treas-

The health of the marchers has been remarkably good, considering their experience. Meals that have been irregular, when they were provided at all, and sleeping on frozen ground with a scant covering of straw is not ordinarily considered conducive to a man's physical well being. There is no physician in camp unless Dr. Kirtland, the pervous little Pittsburg astronomer, is an M. D. Smith, the mysterious individual who is the military head of the enterprise, has a cold, attended with a husky voice. His clear ringing tones are less penetrating today than they have been. Smith's attire is still immaculate, but defects have been discovered in his military discipline. He has the bearing of a man accustomed to command. He can start and hault the column, direct them to right face and leftwheel, but he cannot direct the execution of more intricannot direct the execution of photosistics.

At noon the Commonweal arrived at Maximo, the capital of Washington township. The riders had a chilly time of it.

Marshal Browne led his stallion over a large part of the route. The territory traversed presented a deserted appearance. A thin covering of snow was on the fields, and not to exceed a dozen people had assembled in the streets to see the Commonweals march by. Flocks of chickens strutting around the big red barns of this section were the subject of remarks, but no man undertook to molest them. Army songs were rendered under the direction of Astronomer Kirtland's newly organized

On the way the army passed the deserted camp of Hougre Jackson, the Chieago half breed. He is the queerest character in the camp, but there is method in his madness, and the end sought is free: advertising. He started from Massillon with only a sack of carment as his food supply. Ills plan is to keep a full hour ahead of the expedition, and he is looked upon as a forerunuer. He has been atterroting to relate the story of his life to the new-paper measince be kined the expedition, but has not succeeded in getting them all together yet. He now proposes to furnish them with a typewritten narra tive of his experience in the Reil rebellion.

As a rule people viewed the caravan from their houses, and not to exceed a dozen moved from the read-ide. Owing to the small number the plan of boiling a meeting was abandoned. The march is conducted at the rate of about three miles an hour. At the end of almost every mile a halt is called to rest the men and horses. A score of men was all that witnessed the departure from Louisville.

The army arrived in Alliance footsore and weary, and at once set out upon a begging expedition. Toes have begun to over from shoes that have vielded to the hard service of the march, and the lack of clothes is still severely felt. Clothing and other supplies were asked for but little was obtained. No dinner, and only cheese, bread, potatoes and black coffee on the evening bill of fare has caused much grumbling and it may lead to open mutiny. General Coxey went to Chicago last night, but he will be back this evening. He and Browne addressed a crowd in the opera house yesterday afternoon, Browne's plausible defense of the crusade brought applause and $10.92. Camp Anna L. Diggs will be established at Salem to-The army was tendered for sleeping quarters the Independent church and a vacant store room, but the invitation was refused. D. W. Smith and W. H. Rockard have collected more food than can be carried by the wagons, and the men are wondering. in view of the scant fare at supper, what has become of it. About forty men were mustered in last evening. Coxey's departure has caused rumors that the expedition is about to collapse. Unless be is ruined financially some sort of a procession will certainly reach Washington. Browne announced publicly that when Coxey left for Chicago he had barely money enough to buy his ticket. He left the Commonweal treasury with a stock of supplies, but not a cent in the treasury.

A dispatch from Christopher Columbus Jones, Coxey's agent in Philadelphia, says that "men are culisting all the time, and that several women have made application for a place in our ranks, while provisions are pouring in on us."

The reports sent out from Massillon about J. S. Coxey being involved in financial difficulties are untrue. Mr. Coxey's attorney states that the report about the foreclosure of a mortgage held on his borse Acolyte is groundless.

At Woonsocket, S. D., Colonel W. S. Young, a former partner of Coxey, is issuing an edition of his paper calling for recruits in South Dakota. Young says he expects to raise a regiment of 1,000 men and to start with them from Woonsocket April 12, going east by Sioux Falls.

CHICAGO, March 28.-With little prospect of securing a hearing, the investiga-tion into the insanity of Prendergast, Mayor Harrison's assassin, was called before Judge Chetlain again resterday. The state made an application as soon as court opened that the case be continued ten hays, which was granted. It was publicly conceded by the state that the court could further extend the execution of the death

Prendergast attempted to punch the eyes out of Charles Johnson, his death watch, after being returned to his cell. The trouble arose because Johnson com-pelled the prisoner to sit down when he was attempting to make a speech to the court. Prendergast was wrathful, and his rage broke loose after he and Johnson had left the court room.

"Its a good thing for you we were in the court room that day when you took hold of me," he cried.
"Yes, I expect so," replied Johnson, good naturedly.

"I know my constitutional rights," insisted the assassin, growing excited, "and I demand them."

"Weil, you are getting them, are you not?" queried the guard.
"There's a lot of you fellows around here who would be glad to see me get the worst of it. You are one of them, too."

At this point Prendergast seized a broom in his cell and pushing the handlethrough the bars jabbed Guard Johnson twice in the face with the point of the handle with all his strength. The first punch of the broom handle struck the guard on the left temple, near the eye. The second caught Johnson on the cheek, bruising it considerably. Before Prendergast could again make use of the broom handle Johnson seized is and pulled it out of his hands. Then the little assassin danced around in his cell and yelled.

Jailor Morris ordered Prendergast removed to the dungeon as soon as the af-fair was reported to him. Prendergast refused to leave his cell, and was taken out forcibly by Guard Johnson and another attendant. He resisted and shouted defiance to the jailors and guards, but was finally landed in the dungeon, where he was kept four hours.

THE DISPUTED LETTER.

Breckenridge's Counsel Claim That It Is Authentic.

SUPPORTED BY EXPERT EVIDENCE.

Mesers. Hay and Shaffer Testify That the Alleged Forged Letter Was Written by Miss Pollard Herself-Police Superintendent Moore Recalled.

WASHINGTON March 28 .- The defense in the Pollard-Ereckinridge trial took a new tack yesterday, and ventured upon the troubled sea of expert testimony. Two witnesses well known in Washington, Dr. E. M. Shaffer, the deputy coroner of the District of Columbia, and Mr. Edwin B. Hay, an attorney who is something of a local Chauncey Depew, appeared for the Kentucky congressman, and their statements were directed to the support of the sometiments where the statements were directed to the support of the sometiment. contention that the hand of Madeline Pollard penned the black bordered letter written in 1884, which she has most emphatically disavowed twice over on the witness stand. Great stress is laid by the defense upon the authenticity of this letter, not only because it runs counter to the testimony of the plaintiff that Colonel Breckinridge first called upon her at the Wesleyan academy of her own volition, but because they think if she can be proven false on one important detail her whole statement will be impeached. The signature to the letter, also, goes to support the opening statement of the defense on a minor detail, viz.: That Miss Pollard had adopted at that time the middle name of Breckinridge. This letter which has figured so conspicuously in the case, and which the defense will fight to get before the jury, is as follows:

Wesleyan College, July 20, 1894.
Dear Colonel Breckinridge: Your letter came to me on Saturday. I am glad you told me it would be inconvenient to come out here to the college, for if you had gone to ever such a little trouble to listen to what sometimes over-burdens a schoolgirl's mind you might be inclined to be provoked with yourself. A preacher's opinion of my little affairs would cause premature gray hairs, where your opinion might clear away all doubts and fears and let me be quite free hearted again. I think I have prepared you for a divorce case, but listen, it is worse than that. If a certain person should advance funds for my tuition here at school for three years under the promise at school for three years under the promise that I marry him at the expiration of that time, could be do anything if I would not marry him, but teach and refund him all be had advanced? I know you think, why the deception? But on no other terms will be agree. When a girl wants nothing but a good education, but means to obtain such are denied her, what is she to do but take the only chance she is ever likely to have. I liked your face, and I am sure. I would like you, and if at any future time you are in the city and at any future time you are in the city and would care to come around remember that bome faces are always welcome.

Tam very respectfully yours.

MADELINE B. POLLARD. For the first time yesterday the keen acceptantiantian nower of Judge Jere Wilson, whose work has been awaited with interest by his fellow lawyers, was brought into play. It was first exercised upon Major Moore, the chief of police, who was called lack to dispute some of Miss Pollard's struments regarding the two interviews in his office during which Colonel Breckinridge repeated his promises to marry her, and afterwards Mr. Wilson stirred up such a cloud of verbal dust pround the expert testimoney of Dr. Shaffer that the spectators hardly knew whether the letter purported to have come from the plaintiff to the defendant or the reverse The testimony of Messes. Shaffer and Hay was unshaken by cross-examination It was to the effect that the letter in dispute and the letters which Miss Pollard acknowledged as here was written by the same hand. The cross questioning developed the fact that Dr. Shaffer had received 550 per day for similar services as an expert. Major Moore's examination was brick. He depied that in either of the two interviews Colonel Breckinridge had said-"This is one of life's tragedies," or that he had said anything about Miss Pollard bearing two children or being in a delicate condition In neither interview had Colonel Breckinridge said: "She knew I was a married man when she took me," nor had Miss Pollard said: "Yes, I gave myself to him." When Judge Wilson asked if anything had been said or done to the second interview to indicate that the promise of marriage was merely a scheme between the two parties not made in good faith the defense was strenuous in its objections, protesting that it called for an opinion which should be the province of the jury, not of a witness. Judge Bradley admitted it, however, and the major said nothing had been done of the sort to indicate a scheme such as had been described.

Today bids fair to be the great day of the trial, for unless the cross-examination of two intervening witnesses is too long drawn out the silver tongued defendant himself will, before adjournment, mount a restrum of a kind in which he has not figured before, and will begin his version of the long intrigue.

Washington, March 28.—The gallant eld war vessel Kearsarge, which went ashore on Roncador reef Feb. 2, has been destroyed, notwithstanding the heroic ef-forts that have been put forth to save her. Telegrams conveying this information reached Secretary Herbert after office hours last evening. One came from Boston, signed by Mr. Alfred Winsor, the president of the Boston Tow company, which contracted to save the Kearsarge, if possible, and sent the Orion to Roncador reef with this object in view. The second dispatch was from Mr. F. W. Houghton, the superintendent of Mari-

"Steamer Orion, which sailed to assist the Kearsage off Roncador reef, reports from Havana that the Kearsage is burned and a total wreck."

The news of the destruction of the his toric old vessel was a subject of genuine regret on the part of those officials of the navy department who were apprised of the contents of the telegrams. They had sincerely hoped that the efforts that had been undertaken to save her hull would be successful and that she would yet be serviceable as a training ship or could be set aside for exhibition as a relic of her deads in the late war. As the telegrams do not indicate the cause of the burning of the vessel there is some curiosity to learn the details. The impression, however, is that it is the work of the natives of New Providence and vicinity. The belief is that they set fire to the hull of the vessel in order to secure the brass and other metal used in its construction. Further intelligence in regard to the burning is awaited with interest.

Congress authorized an expenditure of $45,000 to be used for saving the vessel, if possible. The towboat company will secure some remuneration for the expense entailed, but the limit was fixed by con-

A CO-CHERATIVE COMMUNITY.

How the People of Gibsonville, Mich., Try to Solve the Problems of Employment. Michigan bas a new co operative coiony in the county of Genesee. It is called Gibsonville and was started last fall by the heirs of the late Cuptain Gibson, a pioneer settler in Genesee, who died a few years ago leaving a fine estate and a large family of children. One of his sons, G. W. Gibson, the president and founder of the community, while traveling in Califormia, became interested in the Kaweah stlony and studied its workings. Upon his return to Michigan he succeeded in incculating the rest of the heirs to his father's estate with the communal idea, and they agreed to establish a co-operative community on the paternal farm, which comprises 415 acres of the most fertile land in Michigan.

A joint stock company was organized, with the eight heirs as shareholders, the real estate representing the capital stock. At the start it was decided to limit the membership to 211, and each member is required to take 10 shares at a valuation of $10 each, no member being allowed to purchase more. The organization was effected in November. Since that time 50 families have joined the colony, and the population now numbers upward of 180 persons. There are about 40 houses already erected, built substantially enough to serve all purposes at the start, but they will be replaced by larger and more expensive structures, as the community grows.

The bylaws state that the company is organized to conduct an agricultural, manufacturing and mercantile business for the mutual benefit of all its members. Equal rights are accorded to both sexes, and all business is done according to the instructions of a majority of the members as expressed by vote at the regular meetings. Most of the men now work at farming, but broom and basket factories and a creamery have been established, and the community owns 200 cows. Other industries will be started as there is need and all members kept usefully employed, for there is no place for drones, and they will not be tolerated.

The profits of the community are placed in a common fund and will be divided at the end of the year. One-half of the proceeds will go to the members, each individual's share being regulated by the number of days' work he has done. The other half of the proceeds will be expended for public needs and improvements. Food, shelter, medical attendance, schools and most other things are public charges, about the only expenditures required from the individual funds being for clothing.

FATHER OF THE WHALEBACK.

Alexander McDougall's Career Full of Encouragement For Young Men. The career of Captain Alexander Mc-Dougall, the inventor of the whaleback steamer and founder and general manager of the largest shipbuilding concern in America today, is full of interest and encouragement for the youth of the country, re-enforcing the old lessons about the victory of him who perseveres in the face of the most discouraging circumstances. After he had conceived the idea of the whaleback and convinced himself of its usefulness and practicability, Captain McDougall kept working along quietly in spite of the incredulity and ridicule of the unappreciative, making model after model, each of which involved improvements on those that had preceded it, until finally one was made that convinced capitalists there was a reasonable hope of profit in the idea. With capital interested, success was assured. The American Steel Barge company was formed, with Colgate Hoyt as president and Captain McDougall in charge of the yards at West Superior, Wis., where 35 large vessels of the whaleback type have been built, besides any number of smaller craft. The com-pany has now upward of $5,000,000 in-

CAPTAIN ALEXANDER M'DOUGALL. vested in vessels, with a total tonnage of 47,350. It has branch yards in Europe and on the Pacific coast, and everything looks as if Captain McDougall's whale-backs had a future before them.

Captain McDougall is a man of strong character and individuality and impresses strangers with the idea that he is a plain, blunt Scotchman, but his friends say that he is modest, confiding and sympathetic. He is 50 years of age and was born in the little village of Port Ellen, on the island of Islay, off the west coast of Scotland. His mind always had an inventive bent, and it is a significant fact that as a child he was constantly whittling out miniature vessels and sailing them in the inlets of the sea. The captain's parents brought their family to America while he was a boy and settled in Canada. He took to sail-oring on the great lakes very early in life, making his first trip as porter on a steamer that sailed between Buffalo and Chicago. He first obtained his title of captain when in command of the steamer A. Scott, which was wrecked on Lake Erie many years ago.

NOT AFRAID OF DOGS.

They Knew Just What to Do When a Big One Caute After Them,

I was standing on the railroad platform of a small country town a few evenings ago. There were four men grouped apart from where I was standing conversing among themselves. Just beside the edge of the platform were the grounds of some private residence, fenced in by an fron fence only 3 feet high. Inside the fence, held by a heavy chain, was a dog of the deerhound breed. He was impatiently chaing against the restraint imposed upon him and pulled and togged at his chain at a great rate. The four men were standing looking at him and making comments.

"I don't know why it is," said one, 'that I never have the least sensation of fear of dogs. Why, if that dog was to break loose and jump the fence, it might be dangerous, but l'd be just us cool as I am now."

"I've had several narrow escapes with ferocious dogs," said another, "and I've trained myself to instantly crush them by looking them in the eye steadily. Notice my eye?" The other three peered into it. "Well, gentlemen, that eye has cowed dogs that would take a leg off you at a bite."

The third man, who had been for some time trying to interrupt No. 2 in order to get off his little tale, seized the opportunity and struck in. "I simply kick 'em," he said. 'I've had dogs come at me at lightning speed, gentlemen, jaws wide open and their eyes red with rage. All I've done is to calmly step aside and plant one tremendous kick in their ribs as they went by. It took courage, but I was always there. I never had one to come back at me

The fourth man was just opening his month to tell his little lie when the deerhound over the fence got loose, and probably not thinking of the four men at all bounded over the fence to make good his liberty. I watched to see the man with the wenderful eye get in his work, and the kicker do his great kicking act. and the man with the iron nerve stand coolly with his arms folded, but none of them was doing his specialty that day.

Instead the whole one horse quartet bas bequeed bas believe for bearest trod on each other's toes in a wild endeavor to get out of the way of that deerhound. The head of the iron nerved man bomped into the man with the mesmeric eye and jammed his hat down so that the juster of the eye was dimmed, and I suppose that's why it didn't work. The man who always kicked vicious dogs did get in his kick, but it was on my right shin accidentally, as he rushed by me to save his life. But the deerhound rushed over the fields without looking at any of the herces.-Mount Holly Dispatch.

She Was Dyspeptic.

A rather sallow looking woman, well dressed and refined, was at a table in company with another lady, comewhat her junior in years.

'What do you want?" said the maid. "Oh, I don't know. Sometimes it seems like I had dyspepsy. And I've done everything for it. Drank hot water in the morning and lived on milk diet exclusively for a month. Then I tried the raw beef system and took enough medicine to float a steamboat in. Didn't de me no good, and I just quit thinking about myself and said if I was sick I was sick, and I'd just give my stomach something to think about. So I quit fooling, and now I just eat anything I please or went. Well, just order me a chicken salad, a piece of hot mince pie and a cup of chocolate with whipped cream. They won't hurt me any more than crackers, beef tea or toast. If my stomach doesn't last long, it will enjoy itself while it does last.' -Cincinnati Tribune.

An Odd Yerdict. We sometimes bear odd stories of funny verdicts by country juries, but it is not often we really come across one in the realms of fact. A Hawkhurst jury which sat on a poor old laborer provides us with a Kentish sample of sharp wit. The surgeon who made the post mortem gave it as his opinion that death arose from a powerful irritant poison. The jury had their own ideas and gave a verdict that death was due to the inclement weather! We have not heard whether the case has been placed in the hands of the county analyst, but it is certainly new that cold weather and irritant poison are synonymous. - Rochester and Chatham (England) Standard.

An Interesting Region. In spite of the interest long felt in the cliff dwellers of the west there are still some fine examples of their work in eastern Utah as yet unexplored. The approach from this side is over the ranges and high mesas of western Colorado, a country most difficult to traverse and peopled chiefly by miners too cager for gold and silver to give much time or thought to ethnography. This may explain the fact that so interesting a region remains neglected.-Chicago Her-

Negroes Speaking Irish.

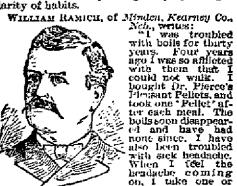

The Irish language still lingers in the Bahamas among the mixed descendants of the Hibernian slaves banished by Cromwell to the West Indies. One can occasionally hear, it is said, black sailors in the London docks, who cannot speak a word of English, talking Irish to the old Irish apple women whom they meet and thus making themselves intelligible without a knowledge of the Saxon tongue.-London Globe.

The First Newspaper. The Acta Diutea of ancient Rome is the earliest approach to the newspaper of which we have any authentic record. The Acta appeared daily until the downfall of the empire, A. D. 476. It was published under the auspices of the government and posted in some public place, the contents consisting of a digest of public dockots, a summary of daily occurrences and all news of a general character. - Chicago Tribune.

Crnggist Olney Will Give Lactated Food

To Mothers.

RECOMMENDED BY PHYSICIANS.

No Matter What You Are Using Now, Try a Package of This Wonderful Food-It Has Saved Thousands of Bables' Lives-Unequated for the Aged and Invalids.

Infant feeding is fraught with difficulties. Hosts of innocent babes, watched with the utmost care, have died because their badly nourished bodies could not resist disease.

Until recent years, infants deprived of mother's milk have been reared in a haphazard and unscientific manner; but all this is now changed. Scientific men of the highest standing have devoted themselves exclusively to the problem of what is the best food for babies. Many results have come, but the greatest and most practical is Lactated Food, the most nourishing, strengthening, readily digested, and palatable food that can be given a baby.

W. D. Olney, the popular druggist, has sold Lactated Food for a number of years and with the best of satisfaction. To bring it to the attention of those who have not used it, be effers to give a twenty-five cent package to any mother or to any invalid or aged person in need of a nourishing and easily digested food, who will cut out the Argus coupon. This package is large enough to make ten pints of nourishing food that will demonstrate to the user the superiority of Lisetated Food. ——

LAGTATED FOOD.

This coupon entitles any m ther or invalid who has not used Lactated Food, to a 25 cent package of this celebrated Food for infants and invailed. Bring the coupon to our store, or mail it with 8 cents to pay postage. Only one coupon received from the same family.

No. 4 East Main Street.

Lactated food is not a secret preparation; it is made from sugar of ner with the nourishing elements of wheat and barley, making it the perfect and natural food for both the infant and the invalid. It is so inexpeneive that no one need go without it. as 150 meals for a baby can be made from a dollar package. Those who are using other foods or an exclusively milk diet for their children, should take advantage of Mr. Olney's generous offer and get a package of Lactated Food at oace.

Gravesend Indebted to McKane. BROOKLYN, March 28 -The board of aufrom George McKane and George W. Roderick an itemized account of the accounts of John Y. McKane with the town for the year 1893. It shows that he received from various sources the sum of $644,405.75, and that he paid out $651,946.45, leaving a balance due McKane of $7,540.70. It is stated as a matter of fact that the town owes McKane a great deal more, as he has been paying for years from $8,000 to $10,000 annually for police service in excess of the state allowance, which has been $30,000.

Dependent Pensioners Reinstated. WASHINGTON, March 28-The pension rolls will be greatly enlarged by a decision of Assistant Secretary of the Interior Reynolds. It will admit to the rolls the names of a large number of insane, idiotic and permanently helpless minor children of deceased soldiers where the pensions of the former had ceased by the children attaining the age of 16 years prior to the passage of the act of June 27, 1890. The decision holds that the act of 1890 has the effect of restoring these dependent persons to the rolls during life or a continpance of the disability. Urging Reduced Salaries for Officials. WASHINGTON, March 28. - Representative Boen, of Minnesota, introduced in the house a bill for the reduction of compensation of persons in the government service. The bill recites that the unit value of money is decreasing, and that private wages are falling while public salaries are kept up to their old figures It provides that salaries from $1 000 to $5,000 be reduced 25 per cent, those from $5,000 to $20,000 -01, er cent; all above $20,000, 50

"THE DEVIL'S AUCTION-"

Thursday Night's Attraction at the Casino.

From the Boston Globe of Jan. 13th. There is certainly no gainsaying the fact that the production of "The Devil's Auction," being given this week at the Grand, is by far not only the best one yet seen in this city of this particular spectacle, but it is also one of the best entertainments of its kind seen in this part of the country, as it has more of novelty in its features than is usually found, and not only that, but it has more of them; it is, in a word, a rapid transltion from one good thing to another. until the auditor is at a loss to try to select which one is the best. The crowning feature, and one that briegs to a most fitting finish this series of elaborate stage creations, is the transformation scene, "The Advent of Spring," which pictures the coming of the warmer days in a series of something like twelve beauti-

The Only Pace Horses Remaining Are

Held by the Sheriff, CAMBEN, M. J. Morch 2 .- That the last tope of horse to high at Gluacester has exhast of the racers which have been wintering in the stables at the track were shipped tracted by their owners.

At one time in the history of the Glouerster track not less than 1,500 race borses were stabled there and in the immediate v chaity. Now there are about fifty speci-mens left at the place, and they are likely to be disposed of soon at sheriff's sale. There were 590 days of actual racing at the day of intermission in all that time. Over 12.000 people witnessed the closing race. and it was estimated that the average daily attendance was 3,000 from the first day. It is further estimated that William J. Thompson derived a revenue of not less than $1,000 a day from the track. Giruccater is now a deserted village. Nothing is left of it but the shad fisheries and they belong to Thompson, and some manufacturing interests which afford a scant living to the inhabitants. It is rumored that Thompson provoses to make it a summer resort of unique character.

Looks Like a Double Murder. RACINE. Wis., March 28-A startling discovery has been made in the case of Mrs. Moyer, who was recently brought back from Brooklyn, N. Y., on a charge of poisoning her former husband, Herman Groenke About two years ago an adopted son of the woman died very sud denly and was interred at Mount Hope cemetery. The body of the child was exburned yesterday, and the liver of the little one was found to be in a perfect state of preservation, indicating that it contained large quantities of arsenic. > Charges Against a College President. NEWARK, Del., March 28.—The board of trustees of Delaware college held a meeting yesterday and the attendance was unusually large. The mutterings of discontent at the administration of President A. N. Rant, which have been whispered for some time, were spoken openly in the meeting, and the criticisms were so severe that a committee was appointed to make an investigation into the administration of the college, with special reference to the president. There are several charges to be investigated.

HYMENEAL.

Hart-Little.

The marriage of Miss Marie Louise, only daughter of Hon. and Mrs. T. N. Little, to Thomas Riego Hart, Esq., of New York city, which took place in the First Presbyterian Ohurch, last evening, was one of the most brilliant events of its kind in Middletown's social history. Long before the hour appointed for the ceremony, saven o'clock, the church was crowded to its fullest capacity. As is always the case on such occasions, the ladies far outnumbered the men and their ravishingly beautiful gowns made a picture of life and color that it was good indeed

While waiting for the arrival of the bridal party Mr. W. J. Stevens played several selections on the organ in his best style and Dr. Danforth sang "Her Wedding Morning," with fine

It was only a few minutes after ? o'clock, for every effort had been made to have the marriage take place on time, when the scrains of the Wedding March from Lohengrin sounded and the bridesmalds entered from the church parlors. With slow and stately tread they moved up the aisle to the entrance door, where they joined the bride, who entered the church on her father's arm. The bridegroom joined the bridal party at the altar and Rev. Dr. Gordon, pastor ( f the church, in a service that was beautiful in its simplicity and impress veness, made "these twain one flesh."

The front of the choir left was draped with smilaz and in front of the pulpit platform Easter lilies and palms had been thickly banked. Before this background of green and white, the bridal party was grouped with fine effect, making as pretty a picture as one could wish to see.

The bride, one -of Middletown's fairest daughters, was never more beautiful thau she was, last night. Her wedding dress, of rich white silk, was worn by her mother when she was married in 1870. She wore a bridal veil and carried a bouquet of white

The groom's white sik vest was made from the same piece of silk as the bride's dress, and was worn by the father of the bride when he was married.

The bridesmaids were very charmiog in their costumes of white d'esprit, with green ribbon streamers. They carried bouquets of Easter lilies. The bridesmaids were Misses Lillian Hart, sister of the groom, of Hoboken, Margaret Parish Beattie, Eleanore Billings Royce, of this city, Helen North Frost, of Poughkeepsie, and Mabel Booth of Elmira, a cousin of the bride. The maid of honor was Miss Ethel Alexandria Hart of Hoboken, She was sweetly attired in white organdle, trimmed with lace.

The best man was Mr. Robert Miles Gignoux, of New York. The vehers were Messrs, B. Franklyn Hart, brother of the groom, Paul Hopkins Gignoux, Theodore Gordon, New York city, Frank J. Donaldson, Jr., Brooklyn, and A. Lincoln Hart, a brother of the groom, of Hoboken.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parente. Prospect Place, immediately after the cere-mony at the church, which was attended by about 100 gueste, all of whom will hold it in pleasant remembrance as one of the most enjoyable of wedding receptions.;

Among the guests were: Col. B. F. Hart and wife, parents of the groom, of H boken, and Mr. and Mrs Thomas Hart, also of Hoboken; Mre. William Hart, Mc. Harry Hart, Youkers; Mr. and Mrs. W. atomitts Dascassed. Speaking in a paper of the subject of the various due cures for fatness, the eminest authority. Dr. Andrew Wilson, Doubtless starch s and sugars, represenic l'in such vegetable feeds as bread, rice, tapacca and the lake, are fat formers. The living body has thus a power of making fat-out of that which is not fat. And along with this point is another-that fat itself does not go, directly at least, to make fat in the body.

Fat is, on the other hand, a valuable addition to the dict of a corpulent person because it has a power properly administered of burning off food excess. In more than one system of body reduction tat is, therefore, administered as an essential part and parcel of the diet cure. It is said that when fat, starches and sugars are all cut off reduction of weight takes place much faster than when fat is allowed in the dietary scale. This may be so, but I strongly question the wisdom of the proceeding.

All we know about fat points to it as an absolutely essential element of our food. We can't live healthily without it, and if decrease in weight rapidly tollows its elimination from the diet the very rapidity of the reduction is an argument against its safety. Besides, starch and sugar largely omitted from the food, with a moderate quantity of fat allowed and a slight increase of the flesh foods, will accomplish all that is needed more gradually, but I also hold more safely for the patient.

The lesson of physiology, therefore, to us all is: Don't neglect the fats of the food. They assist the assimilation of other foods and are essential for the body's nutrition. I should not believe in any system of ordinary diet or of weight reduction which neglected fat on the one hand or insisted that its absence was essential for the cure of corpulence on the other .- New York Times.

South American Politeness.

It rather staggers the North American traveler in Peru to see the prettily uniformed young women collecting fares on the street railways, but when he visits the second city in Mexico, Guadalajara, and witnesses the refined courtesies practiced by the male conductors on the street cars there he is completely paralyzed.

The manners of the Guadalajaran are in keeping with the cheerfulness and friendliness of this city. Imagine yourself entering a street car in New York or any city in the United States and before taking your seat bowing, bat in hand, to your fellow passengers, none of whom you have ever seen before.

Then suppose yourself arrived at your destination. You rise, smile a friendly farewell to the car in general, shake hands with the conductor, and with a polite inclination of the head take leave of the driver. The number of times I have witnessed such exhibitions of politeness convince me that it is one of the customs of the country.-New York

The local talent was thus described: "A few boys who scared rooks, a blacksmith whose tenor voice was as metallic in sound as his anvil, a boy alto who had in his youth, it was reported, swallowed a whistle, which apparently had lodged in his larynx and helped to produce sounds of a most unearthly character, and a miller who had five low notes, and only five, which had always to ht into the chant or hymn being sung and which made a sort of rumbling accompaniment, not unlike the sound of his own millstones. The rook boys came and went, though the miller sang on forever."-London Tit-

He occupies, with his five wives, a handsome house of 30 rooms near the reservation, and whenever he leaves for a journey be turns his wives out of doors because they "have no more sense than to let the house take fire and burn down in his absence." Quanai is 43 years old, very rich and inclined to adopt the ways of civilization to the extent of wearing its cloths, driving a team of fast borses and serving on his table the best that the market affords.

Indiana contributed her thousands of brave soldlers to the war, and no state bears a better record in that respect than it does. In linerature it is rapidly acquiring an enviable place. In war and literature Solomon Yewell, woll known as a writer as "sol," has won an honorable position. During the late war he was a member of Co. M. 2d. N. Y. Cavalry and of the 18th Indiana Infantry Volunteers. Regarding an important circumstance he writes as follows:

"Several of us old veterans bere are using Dr Miles' Restorative Nervine, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills, all of them giving splendid satisfaction. In fact, we have never used remedies that compare with them. Of the Pills we must say they are the best combination of the qualities required in a preparation of their nature we have ever known. We have none but words of praise for them. They are the outgrowth of a new principle in medicine, and tone up the system wonderfully. We say to all, try these remedies."

Langkavel, the blue fox still inhabits the Lapland part of Scandinavia, the islands of the White sea, parts of northern Russia, the coasts of Siberia, the new Siberian islands and in America the Alentian islands, Atton, Oonalaska-the Fox islands-Alaska, the Commander Islands, the Mackenzie river district, Labrador and Newfoundland. The blue fox is a variety of the white fox, so rare that of 100 white fox skins only four or five

How a Giddy Chicago Girl Falled to Keep

Her Appointment. She was sitting by the window in a dejected attitude when her dearest friend rushed into the room exclaiming: "Well Claia, here I am. I staid away until I knew Fred was off to Denver in order not to disturb you. Now, do tell me, am I to congratulate you?"

"Oh, Mabel, don't speak of it. I am the most unfortunate girl in Chicago." "Then be didu't propose, after all?"

"My dear, it wasn't his fault. You see, le was to leave on the 5°0 train for Denver sesterday afternoon, and I knew that something was likely to happen before he went. He called the evening before, and don't you think after I had spent my last cent in bribing my little brother to stay out of the room that hound Larry Smith came in and spent the whole evening! Welt, when Fred left, I made an excuse to go to the door with him, and he asked me to meet him in Lincoln park at 3 sharp next afternoon, as he had

"Ob, how romantie!" "Wasn't it! You see, we used to walk there in the summer, and it was such a lo.ely idea of his to want to speak there among the dead leaves and things-but, oh, I wish he hadn's" something important to say to me."

"It was simply ideal! But why"-"Well, you know I have a delicate threat, which is very convenient sometimes. I had got out of going to old Mrs. Brown's funeral the day before on the plea that my throat was sore. Of course I orgot all about that when I promised Fred to meet him, but mamma hadn't. It was a cold, raw day, anyhow, if you re-member, and, oh. Mabel, she positively re-fused to allow me to go out. I begged and expo-tolated in vain. Then I had recourse to strategy '

'Oh, you smert girl!" "But wait.. I apparently let the subject drop, and after awhile-it was 15 minutes past 2 then-I asked her casually if she had looked over the clothing in the attic recently and binted at moths. That was enough. She went right up to see, and I knew she wouldn't be down for hours, and, oh, Mabel, how I did fly into my street things!"

"I haje you wore your new gown."
"I did and that was fust the cause of all the trouble. I seized my gloves, and glancing at the clock I saw that I had barely time, so I fairly flew out, even forgetting and banging the door in my baste, for I couldn't be late."

'And were you?' "Oh, just listen! You know how full the kirt to my new gown is. Well, as the door banged shut a fold of it was caught inside. I pulled and tugged, but to no avail: the erght lutch had caught, and I couldn't get the door open or the dress loose; the servant was out and mamma up in the attic, where she couldn't bear the bell, and there stood a prisoner, with Fred waiting for me in the park."

"But you got loose?" "Yes; over two hours later brother Tom came along and freed me with his latchkey, but by that time Fred was on his way to formie me as long as he hves!"-Chicago

Misplaced Orders.

During the civil war volunteer officers new to soldiering uttered many orders not in true military form, though perhaps not the less effective on that account. The following stones are related of Major Moody of the Twenty-seventh Michigan regiment: He had been a sea captain on Lake Superior, and not unnaturally some of his old lingo came to his tongue now and then in moments of keen excitement. Once, while his company was in line of battle behind some protection, some of the men exposed themselves recklessly in spite of his repeat-

"Boys, bear a hand and keep down, or

On another occasion, while advancing in line of battle in the Wilderness under a heavy fire, he was so anxious to keep his alignment that he forgot his tactics and his military phrases and went back to his na-tive element and was beard-all along the line graing his commands:

"Luff, boys, luff-stendy, steady-luff luff — there, steady — now give 'em every shot in the locker."—Youth's Companion.

The young man's hesitation was painful. "I see how it is, young man," the papa interrupted. "You are up to your eyes in love. Well, you may have her." -Pittsburg Chronicle.

How dearly some women love to see a wedding was shown, yesterday afternoon, when they began to assemble at the First Presbyterian Church as hour and a half before the doors were opened for the Hart-Little nuptials.

A Cincinnati Enquirer special from Gallipolis, O, tells of a bad mistake made by a colored belle of that city. She had been accustomed to sleep with a horseshoe under her pillow for luck. One night recently, she put her false teeth under the pillow. The next morning she overslept, and jumping out of bed put the horseshoe into her mouth and wore it several hours, before she discovered her mis take. The occurrence is said to have caused something of a sensation in colored society in Gallipolis and to have excited the envy of some of the young woman's female friends.

A school district on Melody Hill in the town of Afton, Chenango county, has got into an odd sort of a muss. It is a peculiarity of "school deestrick" feuds that the pettier their cause the more bitterly they are waged, and this one being over fifty cents, the "deestrick" is rent and torn and divided against itself, and there is more music in the air on Melody Hill, than in the whole of Chenago county. It seems that the trustee, not having the most abiding confidence in the accuracy of his own capacity as a figurer, employed a man to assist him in making out the district tax roll. For this work he paid him fifty cents and included the amount in the tax levy. Some of the residents of the district learned this fact and refused to pay the taxes against them. Attempts were made to enforce collections by levy and sale, litigation was the result, which has already cost the district a very considerable sum, and the end is not

The poetry that goes the roun is of the newspapers is usually very queer stuff. Sometimes it is queer in rhyme and rythm but it is usually queerer in the varied forms in which the same old words are juggled with to give expression to the same old, hackneyed sentiment. Now and then, the reader of many newspapers comes across a gem of poesy, that is absolutely startling in thought sentiment. One verse, however, sug- | superintending the work. gests that the author must have rereader can almost feel the snakes begiz to crawl. A life story, which must touch every heart with its simple pathos, was ended, Saturday, when Catherine Maloney died at Amenia, Dutchess county. For over thirty years she had mourned the death of ther only son, who was killed in the civil war. The shock of his death uninged her mind, and she fell into a state of melancholy. She carried her son's picture constantly with her, and on moonlight nights would sit in lonely places gazing on it and begging for him to come back to her. Her ruling thought was strong even in death, for when she was found, several hours after the final summone had come that called her from earth to meet her loved one in the great beyond, the picture, stained almost beyond recognition, was found tightly clasped in ner stiffened flagers.

THE TWENTY-FOURTH'S "SMOKER."

A Novel Entertainment in Honor of the Company's Seventh Anniversary-A Pleasant Programme Seen and Heard Through Smoke Wreaths from Church

Rev. David Evans made a short address to the members and guests and during the course of his remarks told a number of amusing anecdotes. He was called upon a second time and recited a humorous bit of poetry entitled, "The King is Sick," which was received with hearty laughter and applause.

Private Paul Purps then took the platform and gave one of his clever exhibitions of juggling and balancbetter advantage than last evening, and his efforts were rewarded with frequent bursts of applause.

At the conclusion of his performance Captain McIntyre invited all present to descend to the basement and partake of a few "army rations," which had been prepared.

Chowder, sandwiches and coffee, excellently prepared by Captain Totten, were served in the supper room. The basement of the Armory has been transformed from a dust and dirt hole into very comfortable quar-
